

One Bread One Body

We continue to 'revisit' the document 'One Bread One Body' to help us understand more fully the mystery of the Eucharist and how we celebrate it and receive it.

Vincent Harvey

59. Each celebration of Mass is one Eucharistic moment in the life of the Church from East to West, and through the ages A truly Catholic community is open to every other such community It is rooted in sharing the same faith and in our common baptism, in the Eucharist, and also in communion with the bishops of the Church united with the Bishop of Rome. These three signs and sources of unity – shared faith, shared Eucharist and shared ministry – belong together.

62. when a person receives Communion at a Eucharistic celebration, he or she should be expressing a deep unity of faith and love with that particular community, and with the wider communion to which that community belongs In Catholic teaching, receiving Holy Communion cannot be separated from this 'ecclesial' understanding of the Eucharist

66. At the end of Mass, we are sent forth in deeper communion, we hope, with each other and with the whole Church. We receive the body of Christ so that we may go forth at the Body of Christ into the world, the living sacrament of his presence in the midst of others. Through the Eucharist we become more profoundly the Church and we are sent forth as the Church to fulfil our mission in and for the world. There is an intimate and inseparable link between Mass and mission, between worship and way of life. Our communion with Christ means that we share not only his life but also his mission

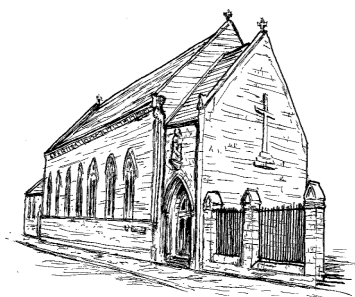

67. The celebration of the Eucharist commits us to the poor and should flow into social action; our active love for the poor and oppressed, the sick and the sad, leads us back to the Eucharist as the source and summit of all we do In the early Church, bishops like St John Chrysostom challenge those who recognised Christ in the breaking of bread to recognise him also in the broken lives of those around them: 'Would you honour the body of Christ? Do not despise his nakedness; do not honour him here in church clothed in silk vestments and then pass him by unclothed and frozen outside'

(Extracts from the 'Teaching Document on the Eucharist' in the life of the Church promulgated by the Bishops of England and Wales in 1998)

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK AHEAD:

1. At Shechem the people recounted what God had done for them (1st reading). Looking back on your life when can you see God at work (make a list and give thanks)?
2. We need to give way to each other 'in obedience to Christ' (2nd reading). This is about 'listening' to one another 'with our hearts'. To whom do you need to listen to today?
3. Many found Jesus' teaching 'intolerable' (Gospel). What do you find difficult in the teaching of Jesus? Why?

Vincent Harvey

SAFEGUARDING E-LEARNING If you have a role working with children, young people or adults who may be vulnerable, or if you are a parent who wants to understand on-line safety, you are encouraged to read the e-learning safeguarding brochure. This explains what programmes are available via e-learning and how to access the programmes that interest you. This e-learning package is part of the Church's commitment to safeguarding, recognising we all have a role to play in creating a safe environment. For further information go to: www.portsmouthdiocese.org.uk/safeguarding.

ASSISTED DYING BILL POSTCARDS The very important debate on a Private Members Bill to legalise assisted suicide will take place in the House of Commons on 11 September 2015. Many MPs in the House are paying close attention to the views of their constituents, and it is very important that we should play our part as much as we can to make our voices heard. Postcards are available in the Church Porches which point out, simply and effectively, the grave risks in this Bill and are for signing and sending by anyone opposing this legalisation.

SSAFA SOUTHAMPTON—VOLUNTEER CASE WORKERS NEEDED. SSAFA represent the financial and material needs of members of the Armed Forces together with their dependants.
